TRACY NEWMAN REINVENTS HERSELF AFTER 60!

Her New Passion? The "Unhurried Childhood"

TRACY NEWMAN has had a long and prolific writing and producing career in TV comedy. Shows include Cheers, Bob, The Nanny, Ellen and The Drew Carey Show. In 1997, she and writing partner, Jonathan Stark, won an Emmy and Peabody Award for the groundbreaking "coming out" episode of Ellen. In 2001, they created the hit ABC comedy, According to Jim. She is also a founding member of the LA-based improv group, The Groundlings, which has become the farm company for Saturday Night Live.

Tracy has been playing guitar and collecting folk songs all of her life. As a teen she led summer camp singalongs; in her 20's she was a singer/songwriter and had her own children's TV show on PBS; in her 30's she taught nursery school and ran the singing programs. Her 40's brought the high profile TV career. But, at 62, Tracy returned to her first love as a singer/songwriter. This eventually led her back full circle to children's music and her new company, RUN ALONG HOME.
